Federal Agent In Report Declares Maryland State and County Officials Do Not Co-operate.

Washington, Jan. 12.—More than 2,000 cases of violation of the national prohibition laws were reported to United States district attorneys for prosecution in the Ohio-Maryland department up to September 30, according to the report of Thomas E. Stone, supervising federal prohibition agent for that department, made public yesterday by Commissioner Kramer. The department comprises the states of Ohio, Maryland, West Virginia and the District of Columbia.

In Maryland, and particularly in Baltimore, the report declared, federal enforcement officers are not receiving the cooperation of state, county and municipal officers. "We see a disposition on their part to help," the report said, "but the decision of the attorney general for Maryland to the effect that the state officers are not obliged to enforce the national prohibition act stands in the way of enthusiastic co-operation."

"In most of Ohio," the report continued, "we receive the cooperation of state officials. Especially is the support of state and local officials taxable since the people adopted the Cripple state enforcement code."

"In West Virginia, which has been dry a long time, we are materially aided by state officials."

In Ohio the number of violations reported to federal district attorneys was 1,500, of which 525 resulted in convictions. There are 1,555 seizures of property, including 127 autos. Tax assessments on the manufacture of liquor from January 16 to 30, 1920, amounted to $798,575.

Ballooning In Letter to His Father Tells of Hardships Experienced In Canadian Wilds.

Crowley, La., Jan. 12.—Hardships of two three-day balloonists in the Canadian wilds are recounted in a letter from Lieutenant Louis Kloss, written after their arrival at Moose Factory and made public here yesterday by his father.

"Show us all we had to drink," the letter said, telling of the trip to Moose Factory after the balloon landed. "We lived on two carrier pigeons, which luckily I did not send back with me. This misery lasted for three days, lost and no signs of hope or habitation in sight."

"Friday, after having followed a small river from where we first landed in the balloon, I discovered sled tracks in the ice and we set off to follow them. If we had not found these sled tracks we would not be living today."

"We followed the tracks for at least five miles and spied a man about a mile ahead of us. I managed to stop him and ask him to help us find a town or some house, food and clothing."

"Much to my dismay, I found that he could only speak in his native Indian tongue, but after many signs I made him understand the condition of myself and my companions. Lieutenant Kloss and his father were played out. The Indian led me for two hours through snow and ice to this place, where to my joy I found a settlement of white traders and Indians."

After dispatching a rescue party for his friends, I ate ravenously for about an hour to satisfy the craving of my famished stomach."

"I never conceived when lost in the woods that we were so far north. The settlers tell us that this is the mildest winter they have had in 20 years, so you can see God was with us and saved us from death, as last year at this time the weather was 20 to 30 degrees below zero."

Four generations are represented in the picture of the Frisco-Green family residing in West Main street, reproduced herewith.

In the group with the youngest member of the family, Robert Edwin Green, aged eight months, are his great-grandparents Mr. and Mrs. S. D. Frisco, and his grand parents Mr. and Mrs. Sherman Frisco.

OSTEOPATHS FILE KICK ON A BILL

Declare Measure Now Before Congress Will Deprive People of Right to Select Kind of Doctor to Treat Families.

Washington, Jan. 12.—Parents will be deprived by the federal government of their right of choice to the kind of physician they want for their children, if the Fess physical education bill is adopted in its present form, declared the representatives of the osteopathic profession of America, at the hearing before the committee on education today. If not amended, the bill is a dangerous step toward state medicine, according to the osteopathic claim, and gives an absolutely autocratic government control, even to the point of complete monopoly, to the old school of medicine.

Dr. Hugh W. Conklin of Battle Creek, Mich., former president of the American Osteopathic Association, and Dr. R. Kendrick Smith of Boston, director of the national osteopathic department of public education, appeared before the committee, insisting upon amendments to avert what they characterized "a medical menace."

The parents should be allowed by amendment to have absolute freedom in the selection of a practitioner of any legally established school of practice, they said, the osteopaths demand, without suggestion, recommendation or duress, and heavy penalty should be imposed by amendment to this bill for any violation by anyone charged with any part of the administration of this law.

Notices given parents regarding treatment of their children should be required by this law to be in black and white instead of verbal, and the law should contain a clear statement of the parent's privilege of selection of the kind of a doctor he wants.

The osteopaths explained that the treatment of disease logically falls under three heads—chemical, psychological and physical—and that, therefore, it is illogical, morally wrong, and unscientific for the federal government to place the entire control of the healing art in the hands of a chemical or drug school of practice, ignoring completely the mental and mechanical practitioners.

Every single state in the country has adopted legislation regulating the practice of osteopathy and registering of osteopathic physicians. Therefore, it is a violation of state rights, the osteopathic speakers claim, for the federal government to establish elaborate allopathic machinery which will operate in these states, rigorously excluding registered practitioners who do not happen to be of the old school.

In a republic, compulsion of health matters, say the osteopaths, is as undesirable as compulsion in religious beliefs, and no free citizen should submit to restrictive laws which abridge personal rights and liberties in either of these fields.

RECORDS DAMAGED IN FIRE MUST BE COPIED

Washington, Jan. 12.—Census bureau officials said yesterday it would cost $2,000,000 and require from two to three years to copy off and thus save the census records damaged by the fire last night in the basement of the department of commerce building.

Complete examination of the damage done by water and fire showed that the 1930 records, the most voluminous of the entire number, were almost totally destroyed and officers said it would take months of work to even save a portion. The records of 1880, 1890, 1900 and 1910 were partially damaged by water, but enumeration records previous to 1880 are practically intact.

T. J. Fitzgerald, chief clerk of the census bureau, made plans today for removing the records from the vaults and drying them out preparatory to beginning the work of copying them off. It is estimated that at least one third of the records of 1790 to 1910 would have to be copied.

The department of commerce was closed today while repairs to the building were being made.

Cigarette smoking was blamed in the senate today for the fire in the commerce department. Senator Smoot, Republican, Utah, declared that smoking during working hours in the government departments should be stopped. He and Senator Poinsett, Republican, Washington, urged establishment of a federal archives building to protect such valuable records as were destroyed in the commerce department fire.

TOLEDO SAYS LABOR CONDITIONS IMPROVE

Toledo, Jan. 12.—Marked improvement in the unemployment situation as compared with a week ago was reported here by representative business men and manufacturers gathered in the Commerce Club yesterday at the request of Mayor Connel Schreiber after a number of ex-service men had demanded employment of the mayor.

It was announced that those attending the meeting were from such a wide range of concerns that an accurate summary of conditions was available.

One week ago, the number of unemployed in Toledo was given by Central Labor Union officials at 27,000. A careful checking up of the city today showed, it was said, that the number now is less than 15,000. It was stated, however, that many young men had left the city and gone back home in small towns to remain until the factories reopened.

The automobile manufacturing plant of the Ford Motor company, it was announced, is preparing to resume production about February 1. Several other large factories, which have been wholly or partially idle for several weeks, also have set that date for reopening.

Resumption of the "blank" department of the Luby Glass Manufacturing company Monday will give 1,100 employment, it was reported.

A number of motor accessory plants connected in connection with the Willys Overland company have completed inventory and are awaiting announcement from headquarters to resume operations, it is said.

Every branch of business and every charitable organization in the city was represented at today's meeting.

JAP AGENTS RANSACK D'OLIER'S BAGGAGE

New York, Jan. 12.—Franklin D'Olier, former national commander of the American Legion, has just returned from a two months' vacation in Japan, where during his travels he was trailed continuously and his baggage and personal papers frequently and surreptitiously examined. Mr. D'Olier was informed that the war of Japanese government agents who sought to investigate the report that Mr. D'Olier came to Japan to "organize American reservists" residing in the islands.

Mr. D'Olier related the story with a good deal of amusement to the members of the board of directors of the American Legion Weekly, a meeting of which Mr. D'Olier came to New York to attend.

Every time he and Mrs. D'Olier left their hotel, the former commander said, he would discover on their return that everything they had had been examined. Finally he adopted the policy of leaving his trunks open and his papers handy where they could be inspected without undue trouble on the part of the inspectors. At the conclusion of his sojourn Mr. D'Olier told his "guide" he would be glad to explain anything the "guide" had not understood in the papers he had examined.

Mr. D'Olier said the apparent cause of the suspicion which seemed to be directed at him was the action of the Legion national convention which voted to support the Japanese exclusion laws.

New York, Jan. 12.—An attempt to punish a man for making out bills on Sunday failed here yesterday when H. B. Divorsky, a manufacturer, was discharged in Jefferson Market court.

"There is no such thing as a 'Sunday blue law,' and there is a right to work in his office on Sunday so long as he is not engaged in the sale of merchandise," ruled Magistrate Sweetser.

CUBAN INTERVENTION.

(Philadelphia Record)
The Cuban Minister in Washington is reported to have shown some resentment at the dispatch of General Crowder to Cuba, and to have been reassured by the statement that intervention was not intended and that the general was merely an official observer. But, of course, his visit to Cuba is not unconnected with disputed election returns, the effect of one element in Cuba to obtain American intervention, and the indubitable fact that we are going to have peace there and that we have every right to take steps to prevent anarchy and civil war.

General Crowder has very complete knowledge of Cuba and the Cubans, he has done good service there on a previous occasion, and his advice is likely to be of great value to the United States. It is an undoubted fact that the United States cannot avoid American intervention by setting their election disputes and preventing any branch of the power.

Our intervention in Cuba 20 years ago was due to the influence of the civil war and the impetuosity of the Spanish government, which was unable to maintain peace and order. Some of the most serious difficulties from the destruction of the Spanish fleet, and the loss of Cuba, and the fact that the United States could not stop it, we did so. But we are now expected to put up with a Spanish government which is a native government, that we were under a Spanish government.

We have already shown that we have no objection to annex Cuba. It is a matter of fact that the United States has no objection to annex Cuba. It is a matter of fact that the United States has no objection to annex Cuba. It is a matter of fact that the United States has no objection to annex Cuba.

THRIFT WEEK.

The National Thrift Week Committee has set the week January 17-23 to be observed as Thrift Week. Here is a cause that is vital to every man, woman and child here in Newark and everywhere else.

The financial difficulties from which the country now suffers have occurred largely because thrift was not more generally practiced. The capital resources of the country, which are made up by the savings of the people have proved insufficient to float the country's business. Now if prosperity is to be maintained, the people must learn to save enough so that business can be financed.

Thrift week should be observed in every school. The saving habit is an essential in education. Every school child should be taught to have his own savings account, to which he is making regular additions.

In some places, thrift campaigns have been successfully conducted among factory workers, with evidence that such employees are frequently willing to have regular deductions made from their pay to establish savings accounts. Where this is done not merely are large sums made available for business investment, but the workers become citizens and feel they are sharing in the business development of the country.

It would pay the banks to make a more intensive campaign for deposits. All other kinds of business use some form of solicitation to attract attention. Banking houses that make free use of newspaper advertising, feel that it is interesting, make former spenders in the thrift idea. There is abundant evidence in this country to prove the capital that is needed, but it can't be collected so long as people put money into luxuries instead of into permanent equipment.

of a self-governing state we shall keep our hands off. But if they undertake to settle a Presidential election by means of rifles and machine guns we shall intervene. Just as we should with an our own limits. The presence of General Crowder is an intimation. The matter will go no further if order shall be maintained and the forms of law be complied with.

SAD TO RELATE.

(Cleveland Plain Dealer)
The new governor of New York has an idea that the state is under no obligations to furnish government penitentiaries with high powered pleasure cars. The opinion strikes Albany as a bit naive and radical, such a car might be expected of a man from a rural center like Syracuse. Pay roll patrons resent the curtailment of their motor car privilege and agree unanimously that the governor is a state idiot who has been unable to get the state to buy him an automobile. Just a fairly successful one might also get a state paid chauffeur to drive his state owned car. It is common practice, of course, the gasoline was state owned. Then away to the mountains or sea shore, or away for a week end at New York of a day at the Saratoga races!

But spring in the distance now looks dismal and cheerless. Country high ways have lost their spring qualities and broken meetings. There working for the state, no nothing to do but work for the state a month's post paid due to the new governor's hope less Syracuse point of view.

State cars must be given up. It is a matter of fact that the state has no right to own a car. The state has no right to own a car. The state has no right to own a car.

It is occupied by ten or twelve St. Augustine monks, who, with their St. Bernard dogs, have rescued many hundreds of travelers from death by exposure to cold or burial in the snow, which ranges from ten to forty feet in depth. The pass is at an elevation of more than 8,000 feet and almost at its very crest is a small lake which is frozen over nine months out of the twelve. On the edge of this lake stands the hospice, founded in 962 by a Saxon nobleman, Bernard de Menthon, for the benefit of pilgrims to Rome.

BORROWED HUSBANDS
By MILDRED K. BARBER

III.—The Flutter of Wings.

"So Gerry's really going?" I half believed he'd change his mind at the last minute even after the farewell dinner party at the club last night. Nancy, it was pathetic the way he looked at you—as if he were going to take away a vision of you to hold through the lonely months in that awful Peru."

Nancy, on her knees before an open traveling bag, laughed up at the speaker. "You romantic old dear! I suppose if you were here, you'd be weeping all over the place just because Gerry's going."

Constance Stanley sighed. "If Gerry were my husband, I wouldn't let him go. Or else I'd go with him. He's so shingly attractive. And Spanish girls are pretty."

Nancy shrugged, her hands busy with silver toilet articles. "Gerry prefers blonde. Look at Mitz! After his first experience, you'd know he'd go for blonde. He's got blonde. And Spanish girls are pretty."

"But you WILL be unhappy," persisted Constance. "You're a man's woman. You've got to have a man taking you about and buying you diamonds and picking up the things you drop. Women's luncheon and bridge parties bore you to death—you've often said so."

"But I AM going about with men," announced Nancy. "Wherever did you get the idea I was not?"

"Really, Nancy—" "When Gerry's gone," said Nancy swiftly. "I'm going to be a little sister to all the poor third wives of my acquaintance and amuse their husbands while they slip off for a massage or a treatise read with an old maid."

Constance Stanley studied her reflectively. "Do you know that's quite an idea? You're pretty and clever and have too good taste to make any start with a husband?"

"Tomorrow—" "Good-bye, My Dear, My Dear!"

Our Boys and Girls

The possession of a little writing desk with attractive furnishings and a low, comfortable chair, is a healthy aid to childish letter writing and will work wonders toward interesting the average child.

A practical way to encourage a child in composition is to have them write frequent "thank you" notes. Talk to them beforehand about what they say. Childish phraseology is thing more often caught on words in advance makes the actual writing of it an easy matter.

A box of miniature correspondence cards, decorated with nursery designs, is a great help for the child who is discouraged even at the sight of a sheet of writing paper. It takes such a few words to appear to advantage on such a card that several notes can be disposed of without unduly tiring the youthful correspondence.

Making Beautiful Arms.

To make the arms beautiful that are not naturally so requires a lot of patience and lots of treatment. One must remember that it is harder to build up than to tear down. Exercises may be adopted, however, that will improve the circulation and take away from or add to any part of the body. Should the arm be thin the exercise should be mild, but if there is too much flesh the exercise should be more vigorous.

An ideal method of plumping the arms is to wrap them in oiled bandages to be worn all night. Before applying the bandages the entire arm should be bathed in warm water for two minutes. In addition to cleansing the skin, it opens the pores and better prepares the skin to absorb the oil.

The bandages should be strips of linen about two inches wide, first soaked in olive oil and then applied. Begin at the wrist by winding the bandage around the arm, working upward until the whole arm is incased. The bandage should be put on firmly, but not so tight as to retard circulation. To prevent one's clothing or the bed clothes from becoming soiled, silk should be used to cover over the bandages.

The oil may be applied by massaging the arms, but the bandages are better. The arms should be bathed again in the morning and, after being thoroughly dried, a small amount of oil should be again rubbed into the skin by friction, after which the arms should be wiped with a soft cloth and then powdered.

U.S. WAR POSTERS EXCEL IN VIGOR

Interesting Collection on Exhibition in England.

PICKED UP IN MANY LANDS

Most Medals Issued During War and Nearly Every Odd Thing Produced Are Shown—Medal Section Probably More Important Than Any Other—Hate Characteristic of German Production.

A unique collection of war curios is on exhibition at Manchester, England, owned in its entirety by Mr. Frankenhuis of Holland, who throughout the war industriously gathered "trifles" which are now intensely interesting.

Mr. Frankenhuis acquired specimens of most of the medals issued in the belligerent countries, of plaques made in Germany to stimulate the war spirit among families, and of pictorial posters and proclamations that at one time or another disfigured the walls of European and American cities—indeed, nearly every odd thing that the war spirit produced, as propaganda or as inspiration, is represented in the exhibition.

Mr. Frankenhuis will give the proceeds to St. Dunstan's, the home for blinded soldiers, "Posters That Flame."

The rich variety of medals probably makes the medal section more important than any other; but the eye of the casual visitor is first attracted to the posters that flame in national groups, over the glass cases containing medals.

It would seem that if any set of posters deserves to survive rather longer than the rest they are the ones which were first hung in the streets of Paris.

Nearly all the German posters on view were obviously meant to inspire rather than to infuriate. The head of Hindenburg, done massively, or the figure of a bluejacket backed by a nine-inch gun are the same sort of thing that most arms of the British service discovered to be useful in an unsensational way for getting recruits.

Occasionally some more ambitious poster—showing perhaps a pale, mad face backed by flames—stands out with rather ghastly effect, but in general the German idea of a war poster seems to have been not unlike the British. They conform more closely to artistic principle, but they have less humor.

Neither the British nor the German posters can compare with the American for vigor. The silhouette of a hand done in blood red and called "The Hun, His Mark," is as outright a piece of poster work as the exhibition contains, and scarcely balanced by the injunction to "blot it out with liberty bonds."

In the Australian posters there is also a forthrightness of expression which it is interesting to compare with the French trick of saying the same thing differently.

The Italian posters are decidedly heroic. Among the proclamations there is none more tragic than one of the original sheets appearing in Brussels with the announcement that Nurse Cavell had been put to death.

Medals by Goetz and Lindt. Among the medals are many with which the British public is not acquainted, although they were first struck off in England. But both Englishmen and Americans are inclined to pass hurriedly over these to turn to the satirical medals of Goetz and Lindt, of which Mr. Frankenhuis has a magnificent collection.

While the war was going on both these designers put their skill powerfully into any kind of propaganda that happened to be needed, but in 1919 Goetz left his admirers in no doubt as to his new convictions. There is exhibited the head of a German eagle which he did. The beak of the eagle is closed by a padlock. On its beak stands the tree of liberty, around which are dancing figures. The eagle's head is crowned with a large crowd of people, and in the foreground a male figure is destroying the emperor's helmet. France lifts the eagle's foot, and England extracts from it a claw. On the reverse the satirist turns his weapons against Bolshevism.

The Germans were without rivals in the art of carrying hatred into their domestic life. Their plaques have a monotonous inscription that would have made them unendurable to a people which takes its hates so lightly as the British, or which likes them expressed so finely as the French.

WIDOW OF GREEK KING MADE HEIR BY COURTS

Morganatic Marriage Is Recognized—Devotion in Last Illness Wins Favor.

The devotion shown by Mme. Aspasia Manos, wife of the late King Alexander of Greece, to him during his fatal illness resulting from the bite of a monkey has created so profound an impression upon the Greeks that even those who heretofore had spared no effort to separate her from the king have today nothing but good to say about her.

Heretofore King Alexander's marriage had not been considered in some governmental quarters to be valid because it had been solemnized secretly and without the fulfillment of certain formalities.

Aspasia Manos belonged to the Greek Phanariote aristocracy, but was not of royal blood. She was a beautiful girl, and the young prince fell in love with her. When King Constantine abdicated and Alexander was called to the throne he laid down, as a condition of acceptance, that he should be allowed to marry the girl to whom he had pledged his word.

The government appeared to respect the prince's sentiments, but has been charged with having endeavored by every means to bring about a rupture between the two, and even went to the extent of expelling her from Greece after the king had secretly married her.

King Alexander, however, not only brought his bride back to Greece but insisted on and obtained permission for her to live in the royal palace. An anomalous situation ensued, but the king was quite happy and little did he worry about what the people thought or said about his wife.

Since the death of King Alexander the Greek courts have declared valid his marriage to Mme. Manos, dismissed the opposition of the former King Constantine and ruled that she shall inherit Alexander's personal property, which had been claimed by Constantine. The high courts also decided that her expected child will become the heir to Alexander's estate.

FIRST CHINESE SPUDS ARRIVE ON THE MARKET

All New York's Chinatown is peopled over the latest gastronomical tickler of the celestial palate—the Chinese spud. It is the first time that Chinese potatoes have been seen in New York. And since the arrival of the new spuds the epicures of Mott and Bayard streets have scorned the plebeian "Murf." despite the fact the Shanghai tuber is selling at 20 cents a pound, while the Irish spuds are going begging at ten pounds for a quarter. The Chinese tuber in appearance is a cross between a tadpole and a toadstool. They grow in water and are being produced in certain lakes of Illinois and Wisconsin. The photograph shows a Mott street epicure beaming happily upon his first purchase of celestial spuds since leaving far-off China.

U. S. SHIPPING IS NOW SECOND

Passes All Other Countries Except Great Britain.

Chairman Benson of the Shipping Board Reports on Recent Big Advance in Government and Private Fleets—U. S. Shipyard Workers Develop Efficiency of the Various Crafts to High Plane—Reach All Quarters.

With completion of the government shipbuilding program by 1922, the United States probably will have as much ocean going tonnage as all the other countries combined, with the exception of Great Britain, Chairman Benson of the shipping board declared in his annual report.

At the end of the last fiscal year, Admiral Benson said, American merchant ships, government and private owned, numbered 3,404, of 16,918,212 deadweight tons, not including more than 2,000,000 tons of shipping on the great lakes. The net program of government owned ships, he said, contemplated 2,315 vessels of 13,675,711 deadweight tons, and at the end of the last fiscal year, 2,070 ships aggregating 11,622,361 deadweight tons, had been completed.

During the year 1,180 finished ships of 6,379,823 deadweight tons were delivered, exceeding all records. They were built without overtime or other aids to rapid production, Admiral Benson said.

U. S. Shipyard Workers Best.

"The shipyard worker of the United States has developed an expertness which has raised the efficiency of the various crafts to a high plane, and production has kept pace accordingly," Admiral Benson said. The industry has expanded from 50,000 skilled mechanics to a force of 385,000 men available to the private shipyards, he said, adding: "Credit for the accomplishment of the aims of the emergency fleet corporation is therefore due to these men, who have surpassed all previous performances in the shipbuilding of the world."

American vessels are now sailing in 220 separate services. They carried 42.3 per cent of the nation's foreign commerce last year, as compared with 37.7 per cent before the war, the report said.

The following table shows the percentage of the nation's shipping carried in American and foreign bottoms since 1789:

Fiscal year	Value in millions exports and imports	Carried in American foreign bottoms	Carried in American and foreign bottoms
1789	139	24	76

Reach All Quarters.

The government fleet in operation June 30 consisted of 1,294 steel vessels plying to all quarters of the globe, including 508 to northern Europe and 126 to southern Europe. In the trans-Pacific service there were 163 vessels and in the South American, 138. Forty-one direct service lines have been established to South and Central America from nine ports on the Atlantic coast, four on the gulf and two on the Pacific coast, the report said.

In another table the report shows the growth of shipbuilding in the United States since 1813, as follows:

Year	Value, Vols. and wt. tonnage
1813-1819	131,729
1820-1829	122,963
1830-1839	169,042
1840-1849	254,230
1850-1859	338,872
1860-1869	440,079
1870-1879	598,631
1880-1889	794,787
1890-1899	1,108,539
1900-1909	1,625,028
1910-1919	4,454,465
1917	93,405

The board sold during the year 426 ships for a total of $279,914,534, including 131 new steel cargo vessels, 34 new wooden ships and 33 former German cargo ships.

Nearly all seized German cargo craft have been sold or chartered, with option to purchase, while all but eleven of the German passenger ships had been disposed of during the year, the report said. No disposition has been made, however, of the one Austrian vessel, the Martha Washington.

BETTER THAN WHISKEY FOR COLDS AND FLU

New Elixir, Called Aspirinal, Medicated With Latest Scientific Remedies, Used and Endorsed by European and American Army Surgeons to Cut Short a Cold and Prevent Complications.

Every Druggist in U. S. Instructed to Refund Price While You Wait at Counter If Relief Does Not Come Within Two Minutes.

Delightful Taste, Immediate Relief, Quick Warm-Up.

The sensation of the year in the drug trade is aspirinal, the two minute cold and cough reliever, authoritatively guaranteed by the Laboratories, tested, approved and most enthusiastically endorsed by the highest authorities and proclaimed by the common people as ten times as quick and effective as whiskey, rock and rye, or any other cold and cough remedy they have ever tried.

All drug stores are now supplied with the wonderful new elixir, so all you have to do to get rid of that cold is to step into the nearest drug store, hand the clerk half a dollar for a bottle of Aspirinal and tell him to serve you two teaspoonfuls with four teaspoonfuls of water in a glass. With your watch in your hand, take the drink at one swallow and call for your money back in two minutes if you cannot feel your cold fading away like a dream within the time limit. Don't be bashful, for all druggists invite you and expect you to try it. Everybody's doing it.

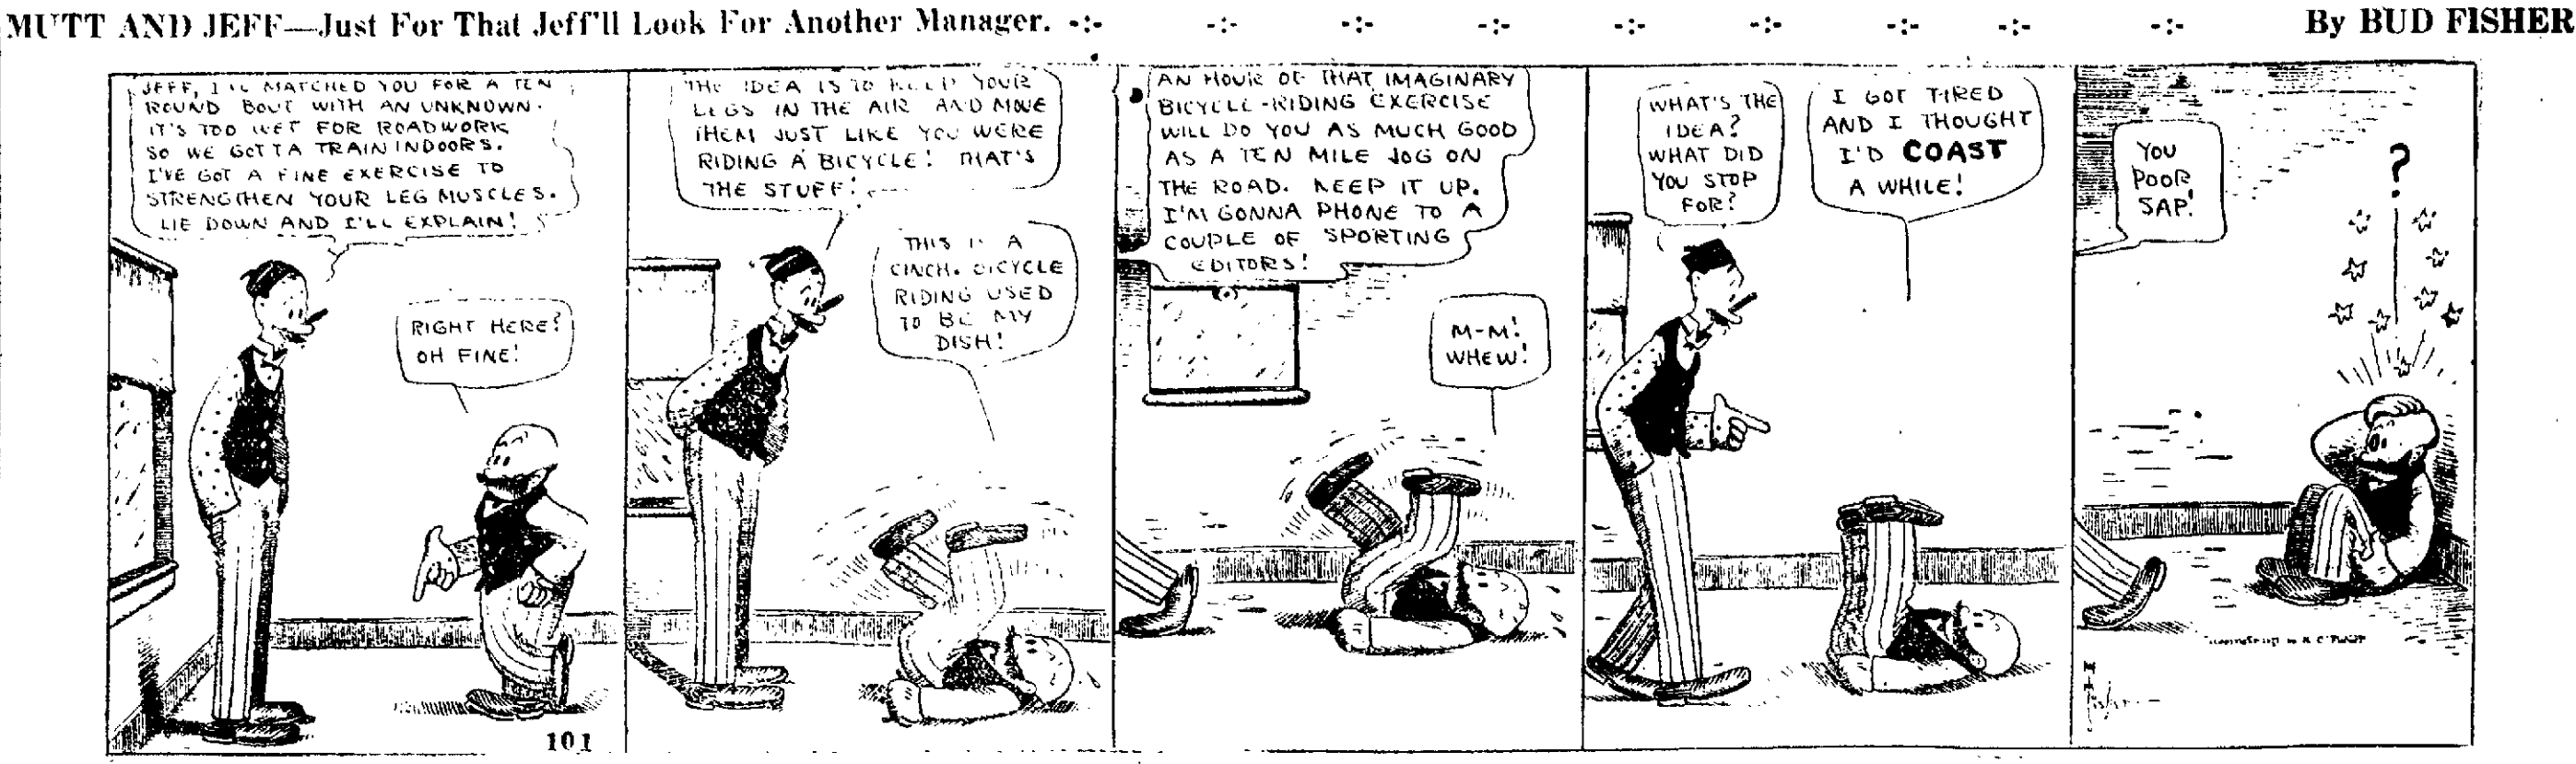

When your cold or cough is relieved, take the remainder of the bottle home to your wife and babies, for Aspirinal is by far the safest and most effective, the easiest to take and the most agreeable cold and cough remedy for infants and children.—Adv.

MARINE GUARD NEEDED IN HAITI
Departure of the Garrison Would Mean Fall of the Present Government, Americans Declare.
Port-au-Prince, Haiti, Jan. 22.—(AP)—Reports that the United States Marine Corps is being withdrawn from Haiti, a movement which would mean the fall of the present government, are being met with a strong reaction here. The government is said to be in a state of panic, and the people are being urged to remain calm. The United States has been in Haiti since 1915, and the Marine Corps has been a key part of the American presence. The withdrawal of the Marines would leave the Haitian government vulnerable to internal and external threats. Americans in Haiti are expressing concern over the future of the country and the safety of their investments. The situation in Haiti remains tense, and the international community is watching closely.

BULL FIGHTS ARE HARD ON HORSES
Mexicans Fear Supply For Transportation In Mexico City Will Be Depleted—Spectacle Horrifies Americans.
Mexico City.—There is a slight agitation here against the use of horses in bull fighting. One contributor writing to a local paper objects on the ground that the bulls will kill so many horses that the supply of them for transportation in the city will be depleted. The spectacle is also considered horrid by many Americans who are in the country. The use of horses in bull fighting is a traditional practice, but the concerns about the welfare of the animals are growing. The Mexican government is expected to address these concerns in the near future.

"I Feel as Tho' I Could Not Drag Thru the Day's Work" is the complaint of many a woman in the household, office or factory. After suffering pain, feeling nervous, dizzy, weak and dragged-down by weaknesses of her sex—with eyes sunken, black circles and pale cheeks—such a woman is quickly restored to health by the Favorite Prescription of Dr. Pierce. Changed, too, in looks, for after taking Doctor Pierce's Favorite Prescription the skin becomes clear, the eyes brighter, the cheeks plump. It is purely vegetable and contains no alcohol.
Druggists sell it in tablets or liquid, or send Dr. Pierce, at Invalids' Hotel in Buffalo, N.Y., 10 cts. for trial package. After taking this well-known remedy you will feel strong and healthy. Such a change in feelings, too—there's sparkle in the eyes, a rose tint in the cheeks, for one has rich, red blood. There's elasticity in every movement and a spring in the step. Love comes to every woman who has bounding health—but when she is pallid, dull-eyed, languid, she has no magnetism, nor does she appeal to any man.

Cleveland, Jan. 22.—For the first time in local courts all the principal actors were women when Mrs. Australia Crapo today appeared for arraignment in criminal court.

"Not guilty," pleaded Mrs. Crapo.

LETTERS OF GRATITUDE
Frequent language and illustrations in advertisements are of great value, but after all it is the honest sincere letters from women, overflowing with heartfelt gratitude for health restored by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, that convince other suffering women that there is a medicine that will help them also. Many such letters are being published in this paper today to day, and it is to any woman's advantage who suffers from female ailments in any form to give this old-fashioned root and herb remedy a trial.

SANDALS HAS NO RELATIVES LIVING
Establishing the identity of Jerry Sandals, who died at the City Hospital Saturday without telling anything about him, a letter was received by the Advocate today from M. Jones of Pataskala.
Mr. Jones says: I have been calling several people over the telephone to find if any one knew of Jerry Sandals relatives. He had two half brothers. He is within a few months of being 47 years of age.
Sandals some years ago advertised himself in the papers as an auctioneer to sell live stock and farming implements.

THOUGHT MOON WAS BEING SWALLOWED UP
Cincinnati.—The moon's release from the jaws of a mythical demon was anxiously watched and prayed for by thousands of people throughout India during a recent eclipse which was visible here. Hindu legends tell of a great serpent of a demon called Rahu, who is believed to swallow the moon and then disgorging it.
On the Howrah bridge, across the Hooghly river, dense crowds waited for the first glimpse of the veiled moon, with one cry after another, "Eko Chhoro! Chhoro!" (I go, leave it). Before dusk, the river was thronged with bathers as bathing during an eclipse is considered a soul-saving act. Beggars swarmed through the city, and as a village to give freely on these occasions, they collected plenty of small coins.

Y., Jan. 22.—Articles of agreement for a finish wrestling match between Ed (strangler) Lewis, champion of the world and Dick Davis, champion of the west, were today the match to take place in this city, January 21. The fight was a young Texan, who is also known as Decatur defeated Lewis last night in a hand-camp match. He outpointed the champion and broke Lewis' famous headlock 13 times. Lewis had undertaken to throw both Davis and "Farmer" Bailey of Vermont in 15 minutes.

Chicago Grain Review.
Chicago, Jan. 12.—Wheat prices declined today influenced by an apparent pause in export buying. Besides, some of the selling was said to be on foreign account. Notice also was taken of gossip that the foreign tax would be removed and that Europe demand for Argentine would be stimulated where as trans-Atlantic business in the United States would be curtailed. Opening prices, which varied from unchanged figures to 3-4 cents lower, with March 1.77 1/2 to 1.78 and May 1.68 1/2 to 1.69 were followed by a material setback all around.
Corn was easier with wheat. After opening unchanged, including May at 74 3/4 to 74 1/2, the market underwent a general sag.
Oats reflected the decline of other cereals, stating unchanged to a shade off, May 48 1/2 to 48 5/8 and then weakening a little more.
Highest quotations on hogs gave a lift to provisions.

Wall Street.
New York, Jan. 12.—The stock market was feverishly active and heavy at the outset, with the trading becoming more unsettled within the first half hour. Springfield. Most rails also were lower: Norfolk and Western forfeiting 2 1/2 points. Republic Steel and Wells Fargo comprised a few noteworthy gains. Exchanges on London opened slightly under yesterday's final quotations.
Losses were extended during the first hour, especially in steel, shipings, oils, equipments, textiles and leathers. Crucible showed an extreme decline of four points, Atlantic Gulf three, Mexican Petroleum two, the motors one to two, American woolen 1 1/2 and Endicott-Johnson, one. The market was actually halted by a sudden rally in shipings, Atlantic Gulf rising seven points and Mercantile Marine preferred two. Secondary rails also improved, particularly New Haven, St. Paul common and referred Rock Island, St. Louis and Southern Rail. Sears-Roebuck was the strongest specialty, gaining five points. Before noon another reaction ensued, Crucible falling to 101 1/2. Call money opened at 7 per cent.

COURSE IN BEE CULTURE DURING FARMERS' WEEK

Agriculture is coming into its own, according to Dr. Ernest Kohn, of Grover Hill, Ohio, president of the Ohio Beekeepers Association. Credit is given by him to the highly efficient and thoroughly practical methods of research and instruction emanating from the division of bee investigations of the Bureau of Entomology at Washington, Dr. E. F. Phillips, chief of the division, and George S. Demuth, formerly his first assistant, but now editor-in-charge of Gleanings in Bee Culture are the men to whom credit is due, said Dr. Kohn.

Through the cooperation of the extension department of Ohio State University and the federal department of agriculture Dr. Phillips will conduct a short course in beekeeping at Ohio State during Farmers' Week, beginning January 31 and continuing five days. Through the personal solicitation of the state association, Editor Demuth will be an instructor with Dr. Phillips. Prof. James I. Hambleton, instructor in agriculture at the University of Wisconsin, and prominent Ohio man are on the program.

The entire evening will be devoted to the social side of beekeeping. The course held last year holds the national record for attendance. The association officers express the belief that this year will be a much larger gathering. Dr. Kohn is making extensive investigation on the relation of bees growing to agriculture and his work is creating quite an interest throughout northwest Ohio, it is said.

His case will be heard in municipal court Saturday afternoon at 1 o'clock.

Mrs. Coons entertained at her home yesterday afternoon 24 ladies of the Baptist church and outlined the work of the Ladies Social union for the year. There will be two bands for each month of the year which will have charge of all church work for that month. At the conclusion of the business the hostess served tea. Miss Elizabeth Chambers and Miss Eleanor Fisher assisted her. The Methodist church and Sunday school raised more than $500 Sunday for European relief with some pledges yet to come in. The Sunday school is in a flourishing condition with an attendance of 200. Mrs. Van Kirk's and Mr. Deming's classes are the leaders. The Three M's and L. Sewing club will meet Thursday afternoon with Mrs. Frank Jackson of the Columbus road.
